Saints of the Week

May 1st,
St. Joseph the Worker

The first day of May – “May Day” – has long been dedicated to labor and the working man. Pope Pius XII in 1955 instituted today’s feast. The Pope expressed a hope that this feast would help in teaching the dignity of labor, and would also bring a spiritual dimension to labor unions and labor legislation.

May 2nd,
St. Athanasius,
Bishop and Doctor

The persecutions by Roman Emperors ended in 311. Shortly thereafter a basic heresy arose to threaten the Church from within. Arius, a priest of Alexandria of Egypt, denied Christ’s divinity and cleverly spread his teachings. Arianism, condemned by the Council of Nicea (325), was battled by today’s courageous saint. As Bishop of Alexandria for 45 years (328-373), Athanasius suffered exile five times and remained the intrepid writer and champion of faith in Jesus Christ, true God and true man.

The stone rejected by the builders has become the cornerstone.
