St. Ephrem,
Deacon & Doctor

Ephrem was born around 306 at Nisibis (now in Turkey), and became a deacon in the Syrian Church. Later transferred to Edessa in Mesopotamia, Ephrem instructed others in theology. He combined contemplation, discipline and catechetical instruction. Ephrem was a poet who used poetry to teach religious truths. He is called the "harp of the Holy Spirit." In 363 he ended a life filled with love for Christ and the Virgin Mary.

June 11th,
St. Barnabas,
Apostle

One of the apostolic men of the New Testament, Barnabas was born on Cyprus. His name was Joseph. Converted shortly after Pentecost, he gave up all possessions and received the name Barnabas (son of consolation) because of his helpful, optimistic nature. Barnabas assisted the newly converted Paul and accompanied him for a while on the first missionary journey. Tradition says that Barnabas was martyred in Cyprus during the 60's.

Pro-Life Corner:

June 14- No matter how many arrows are thrown at you, how much criticism you receive, or how many so-called friends you lose because you're defending life, it's all worth it. Continue to fight the culture of death.

Lord, it is good to give thanks to you.
